Open Enrollment, Hiring Reform Urged At Task Force 'Teach-In'

By Carla Capizzi

The Many Faces Of Robert Klein

MONTCLARION/Bernie Sluzas.

ANTICS OF EXPRESSION: Comedian Robert Klein displays solemnity, surprise, anguish and disgust as part of his routine. Klein appeared in a CLUB-sponsored performance Tuesday night in Memorial Auditorium.

Racism on and off-campus was examined in a series of seminars Tuesday in the Student Center. The Task Force for Action Against Racism, a student-faculty group, sponsored the day-long chain of workshops and panels designed to increase awareness of racial problems and seek their solutions.

By day's end, participants had decided to petition the state for increased higher education aid to "attract students to MSC." They also decided to investigate the feasibility of an open enrollment program at MSC. Action against further tuition increases and continuation of the present Task Force structure were also recommended at the session. The unavailability of free tutoring for students received criticism from both students and faculty participants.

Group members will plot out a course of action for the rest of the semester at a meeting Tuesday. The meeting is open to the entire college and will be held in the Montclair room of the Student Center, first floor, at 4 pm.

PARTICIPANTS in the final seminar charged the business and registrar's office and athletic department with racist treatment of students and faculty. A student in the audience suggested that the college re-vamp personnel hiring procedures to "screen out racist teachers."

Each of the 13 seminars appeared to be well-attended and to receive an enthusiastic response. The sessions explored racism in academics, politics, medicine, communities, the American culture, the mid-East and the plight of the American Indian and the black woman.

TEACH-IN SPEAKER: One of the many speakers of the Racism Teach-In gestures to make a point during the day-long series of seminars and workshops on Tuesday.

A main discussion revolved around Gulf Oil Corporation's alleged exploitation and suppression in Africa. The Task Force reported that the Student Center Policy Board will hold a general referendum to determine if Gulf should continue operation of the Center service station. A date for the referendum has not yet been set.

AT THE seminar, "how to oppose racism," Task Force member Grover C. Furr suggested petitioning the state for increased financial aid. The assistant English professor also recommended the continuation of the Gulf Task Force and urged participants to "keep alive" on campus racial issues.

Furr denounced educational cutbacks, which he said would most seriously affect minority students, as a form of government racism. Dr. Richard Franke of the anthropology department said the cutbacks would be "most responsible" for racism on college campuses and could "pit whites against blacks" in competition for available monies.

MSC President David W.D. Dickson made an unexpected appearance at the final seminar. Asked to comment on the possibility of open enrollment at MSC, Dickson pointed out that such a process would necessitate special supportive services such as free tutorial services. He did not seem to feel open admissions was feasible for the present state college system.

THE TASK Force will send representatives to the "National Conference on Racism and the University" at New York University on Nov. 17-18. A nation-wide committee against racism will be organized during the conference.

Student Wounded In Shooting Incident

A Montclair State senior remains in satisfactory condition in the intensive care unit of Mountainside Hospital following a shooting incident at the college entrance on Sunday.

Calvin Blue, 22, of 111 North 16th St., East Orange, was shot at the bus stop on the corner of Valley Road and Normal Ave. "around 2 pm," according to security chief James Lockhart.

POLICE ARE searching for a suspect, David Richardson, 20, of 11 Wilburton Place, Newark, a US military policeman home on leave from a base in Georgia.

According to Montclair police detective John McGill, Richardson had apparently been upset that a former girlfriend of his, Elaine Jackson, also an MSC student, had been dating Blue.

Blue and Jackson were waiting for a bus when Richardson drove up and beckoned to her, McGill said.

ACCORDING TO the detective, Jackson went over to the car and talked to Richardson through the window, then began walking back toward Blue.

As she approached Blue, he told her to run and then, she told police, she heard a gunshot. Blue fell to the ground and Jackson ran to the security shack on campus for help.

When contacted on Tuesday afternoon McGill could verify no further information as the detective bureau had not yet received the hospital's report on Blue.

AS OF Wednesday morning, Blue was still in intensive care, but his condition had improved to the satisfactory state, according to a spokesman for the hospital. Blue's condition on Monday morning had been given as critical.

Blue was a member of the MSC basketball team the past two years,

College Moves To Close Chapin'

After 50 years as a student living quarters, Chapin Hall is being forced to close its doors.

Chapin, the oldest dorm still in use on campus, is destined to be converted to faculty offices and classrooms by next fall, according to Jerome Quinn, institutional planning director.

BIDS FOR the renovation were accepted late last month and work will begin by the end of the academic year.

Officially, the go-ahead for renovation signifies the end of Chapin residents' two year campaign to save the Spanish mission-style dormitory.

However, Chapin residents are not about to give up the fight. They held an organizational meeting Monday night to map out a strategy to rescue their doomed residence hall.

THEIR TENTATIVE plans for the retaliation include the publication of a Chapin newsletter to publicize their plight, and a survey of the School of Educational and Community Services faculty who are scheduled to move into Chapin in September.

The dorm's 81 residents have stalled the renovation plans for two years with "Save Chapin Hall" campaigns featuring Chapin sweatshirts, banners and fliers.

However, Quinn cited pressing needs for academic and office space as necessitating the conversion of Chapin. He said there was "no construction money available" for new buildings.

HOUSING DEAN Raymond Stover had no special plans for relocating the residents of the co-ed dorm in the fall. He said his office had been "counting on the garden apartments" scheduled to be built in Little Falls. However, the town's veto of the complex's sewage plans have halted construction indefinitely.

Stover and Chapin residents will have to reapply for beds on campus for fall, as will all dorm students. Places are awarded following evaluation of set criteria. Stover did not know if Chapin residents would receive any special consideration.

Residents who are denied on-campus housing are aided in locating facilities in Montclair or neighboring towns. Some 1000 MSC students currently live off-campus.

Stover praised the Chapin community for its "tremendous cohesion" and said he would like to see it remain as a dorm.

However, he said he could "see the need for faculty and class space."

THIS PAST semester Chapin has been the site of an "experiment in community living," a three-credit seminar course taught by Jean Tally and Steve Luben. Resident Tom Barrett said the experiment offered a "period of real growth" and an "alternative to dormitory living."

He felt the college would "have to make a concerted effort, if we're going to grow, to build new buildings," rather than "take away student space." He felt that space in Life Hall could be better utilized and developed into a study/snack area. "Rather than taking over used space, the college should use underdeveloped, unorganized space," he argued.

Sept.-Oct. Car Thefts Reported

By Nancy Forden

The theft of twenty-five cars from campus parking lots during September and October has resulted in an increase in the number of MSC security personnel, according to Keith Kauffman, MSC security director.

"In the month of September, 23 items were reported stolen, over half of which (14) were autos. In October there were 17 thefts with again over half (11) being cars," Kauffman said.

"We want to provide better security for faculty and students," he added. "Our goal is to get the crime rate down to zero, if at all possible."

KAUFFMAN ALSO offered statistics on the accident rate. According to his figures 20 accidents were reported in September and only nine in October. Yet he admitted that "more accidents and thefts probably happen than are reported to security."

He regards this state of affairs as unfortunate and requested that students and staff members report "anything and everything that happens of a security nature on campus. We really care about it," he added.

The security director leaned forward in his chair as if to emphasize his point. "The name of the game is prevention and deterring. When we ascertain that an area is being hit we're trying to counter it with patrol. If we get the input, then we will do something about it," he explained.

KAUFFMAN CITED the department's latest efforts in staking out high-crime areas with security personnel. Student aides, wearing yellow jackets, also play a big role in this area of crime prevention.

One student security worker commented that she definitely felt her presence as a watchman has helped deter would-be criminals. "However," she said, "the fact that the parking lots are so big and crowded is a major problem. There's just too many cars to watch and I'm always afraid I'll miss something."

Kauffman came out in support of the small car parking lot recently proposed by the Council of Commuter Affairs (COCA) as a means of alleviating some of the parking problems. "It's a step in the right direction," he claimed. "By being able to put two small cars in the space normally occupied by one there's no doubt in my mind that more room will be created and fewer parking problems will occur," the director concluded.

Security guards refused to comment on the status of campus crime or offer any information about their roles as security personnel.

However, students freely gave their opinions about campus security. "We have one of the safest campuses I know of," stated one resident student. "But that doesn't necessarily mean that security is the best. It only means that not that much goes on here," the student clarified. This seemed to be a typical reaction among MSC students although a few did say they believed the security department to be particularly helpful in times of accident or theft.

WMSC Drops Utilities Complaint

By Gene Moore

WMSC, the student radio station, will drop a complaint filed earlier this fall with the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) against The New Jersey Bell Telephone Co. (NJB) and American Telephone and Telegraph (ATT), according to WMSC's general manager Charles Hecht.

The complaint was originally filed as an attempt to rectify a problem that existed regarding the renting of "time" on telephone lines used to broadcast away sports events.

BECAUSE OF the settlement, WMSC will renew its policy of carrying selected football and basketball games, probably beginning sometime during November. The last game broadcast by the station was on Sept. 22 of this year.

Following a three hour meeting with Dick Weirido, NJB's supervisor of New Jersey broadcasting, Hecht said that an accord had been reached and that he felt he gained respect for the station. Hecht said, "I'm confident that we're not going to be kicked around anymore. The next time we do business, we should receive proper service."

The circumstances that led to the filing of the complaint with the PUC were numerous. Although the telephone company's service had been inadequate for some time, the station began broadcasting away football games again this fall.

ON SEPT. 22 "lines" were rented for the game from East Stroudsburg. WMSC paid $75 for three hours of time, but the "lines" did not become available until midway through the first quarter. This specific incident led Hecht to go to the PUC.

According to Hecht, Weirido showed "an intent of good faith" which allowed WMSC and NJB to reach the agreement. Hecht also stated that as part of the accord, NJB had agreed to charge WMSC only for the installation of the "unequalized lines" (lesser quality, and less costly, as compared to more expensive and higher quality "equalized lines") used to carry the East Stroudsburg State football game from Pennsylvania.

WMSC would then only pay about half of the $70.18 bill in question. But Hecht was quick to point out that money was not the main issue. "It was a matter of principle...our professional pride was at stake," he said.

IT IS apparent that Hecht's decision to drop the PUC complaint is also a product of necessity. "I have been so involved with the FM license that I want to avoid a hearing at this time. I also want to avoid the legal costs," he said.

WMSC would not be able to operate without the telephone company. For example, if the station receives its FM license (the application has not yet been approved), "equalized lines" would have to be run from the studio in the Student Center to the transmitter at the state's broadcast tower on Clove Road in Little Falls. WMSC would

Faculty/State Talks Resume

Talks between the New Jersey state college teachers and the state Board of Higher Education resumed on Monday in an effort to ward off an impending faculty strike.

The next meeting of the two parties will take place on Monday with a faculty strike vote scheduled for Sat., Nov. 17.

THE TALKS broke off when the parties reached an impasse in early October. The appointment of a new mediator last week by the Public Employment Relations Committee prompted the new session of negotiations between the state and faculty representatives.

Both parties met Monday with Jack Tillam, the new mediator.

As the MONTCLARION went to press, MSC/AFT president Marco Antonio Lacatena was unavailable for comment, as was Frank A. Mason, director of state employee relations.

NEGOTIATIONS between the union and the state have been carried on since June 30 when the instructors' three-year contract expired.

Lot Conflict Reaches Stalemate

By Patricia Mercorelli

A conflict that has arisen over the possible use as the former Admissions Office on a parking lot or as a recreation field has reached an impasse. According to Jerome Quinn, institutional planning director, there are no plans to develop that area in any way.

The problem came to a head when SGA rep Mike Messina introduced a bill at the Oct. 30 meeting of the legislature to "have SGA and the Student Intramural and Leisure Council (SILC) work together to have that area turned into a recreation field since the facilities on campus are inadequate and the shortage of land is becoming acute."

HOWEVER, FRED Jennings of the Commuter Commission stated that the area was slated to be a parking lot. It was then that the bill was referred to the welfare committee of the legislature for further study.

The committee, in conjunction with Messina and SILC, had planned to distribute a questionnaire on campus to determine student opinion. Those plans were scratched when it was discovered that the college had no plans for developing the area in question.

At the present time the committee intends to study the bill and Messina will contact Quinn to determine exactly what the college will do with the area.

QUINN STATED that if there were any ideas to pave that area, which is only 250 ft. x 380 ft., fitting approximately 200 cars, "they never got as far as this office." He said that the space "does not lend itself to parking" since the exits lead into Normal Ave. and Valley Rd., an already jammed street.

"Basically it is one of the few green areas we have on campus and we would like to keep it," Quinn commented. McKinley Boston, intramurals director, believed that the area could be put to much better use than parking saying that it is such a small area that it cannot really solve any parking problem. He emphasized that "we are always looking for immediate solutions but we should concentrate more on the future effects of an action."

Boston believes that students would benefit from a recreation field because it would allow intramurals to program activities during the day. Now they must schedule events that do not conflict with varsity sports since they both use Panzer Gym.

STU RICHTER, student president of SILC, agreed that the area would be put to good use as a recreation field. He explained that "it could be used for softball, football and track, volleyball and generally for student enjoyment." Boston commented that it would "be a centrally located spot to have a field house for intramurals."

The general consensus now is that SILC and the Committee will wait to see what develops.

Gulf Future Put To Vote 11/9/73

By John Picinich

It appears that the Gulf Oil service station on this campus is in for a stormy month.

At a Nov. 5 meeting, the Student center Policy Board voted to put the question of retaining the Gulf station on a referendum within a month, according to Bruce Conforth, chairman of the policy board.

THE POLICY board chairman stated that the referendum question will ask if the voter is willing to remove the gas station without the replacement of another type of oil company.

"We (the policy board) are investigating the feasibility of another company on campus instead of Gulf. If another gas company is found, Gulf will be removed by the policy board," he said.

Conforth predicted that the referendum would be the first time in this college's history that a governing board is asking students "what they want" as well as to make a "moral decision," alluding to alleged policies of the Gulf Oil Corporation in suppressing Angolan nationals. He attributed the referendum to an "extremely strong board (the policy board)."

TO MAKE students more aware of the meaning of the referendum, the Policy Board is co-ordinating an information drive with Gulf Action Group of the Task Force Against Racism. Literature will be passed out and seminars will be held.

Conforth stated that he hopes that Gulf will send representatives to these seminars so that "both sides will be presented."

"It is a major decision, it must be a fair one," he concluded.

In recent months, the gas station has been hit by a wave of protest. The Gulf Action Group has been trying to remove the station because of the corporation's activities in the Portuguese colony of Angola, where nationals are fighting for the colony's independence. Gulf is said to be financing the war by paying Portugal a subsidiary of $20,000,000 a year.

HOWEVER, ACCORDING to James Walker, public relations director for Gulf Oil Corp., New York, Gulf does not pay a war tax in Angola. He added that the taxes and royalties Gulf does pay go to the province of Angola, not the Portuguese government.

Walker stated that the taxes and money help increase the education, health standard and other socioeconomic factors of Angola.

Countering to charges of racism, Walker said that Gulf "does not invest in countries where the government prohibits equal employment of whites and blacks."

"The wage minimum," he said, "is 30% higher than the collective agreement minimum, established by the union and the company. It is $97 to $104 a month."

Walker concluded by saying that black employment in Angola has increased since Gulf went into the province six years ago.

VINCENT B. CALABRESE, vice-president of administration and finance, stated that he sees a need for a gas station on this campus because of its service to students and employment of students. He also said that he "does not care" what oil company supplies the gas station

Greg Carroll, assistant director of the Student Center, stated that Gulf is merely a "supplier" of gas and added that if he could get another supplier offering more gas, he would do so.

'A Search For Meaning'

The Pre-College Philosophy Conference, which was held on Thurs., Nov. 8 in the Student Center, discussed the possible introduction of philosophy at the grammar and high school levels.

The conference was intended according to conference coordinator Dr. Matthew Lipman, "to dramatize the possibility that we may have overlooked a very responsible area." He pointed out that students at all levels on the educational ladder are concerned with a lack of meaning in their courses. "Philosophy," he continued, "is mainly concerned with a search for meaning."

THE EIGHT-state conference, which was the first of its kind school and grammar school teachers and administrators. Lipman describes it as "an exploratory conference to discuss the benefits of teaching philosophy at lower levels." Though he will be pleased if some programs develop out of the conference, he emphasized that this is not its purpose.

MSC President Dickson opened the conference at 9:30 am in the center ballroom. Dr. Wolfgang Fleischmann, dean of the School of Humanities, introduced Dr. James McCellan, education professor at the State University of New York, who spoke on the reasons for the neglect of philosophy in the American educational system.

Dr. Amitai Etzioni, sociology

professor at Columbia University, spoke on the social effect that neglect in the instruction of philosophy has caused. The conference included six panel discussions on topics ranging from the reasons to study philosophy to how to cope with its introduction to school systems.

LIPMAN REMARKED that there are possible benefits to all of society from the study of philosophy at an early age. He explained that "colleges will receive students that have a more sophisticated and informed view of philosophy." It would quiet "some of the intellectual restlessness prevalent in high school students impatient with academic irrelevance."

LIFE-GIVING GREETING: An Alpha Phi Omega brother introduces Rodney Cooke, 4, to one of the nurses at Wednesday's annual blood drive in the Student Center ballroom. Rodney, who uses 400 pints of blood each year, was the recipient of the donations from the MSC community.

CINA: Combating A Wave Of Apathy

By Patricia Perrone

"Come Cheer, Come Jeer, But Come!" urged the Council of International Affairs in a recent flyer publicizing an upcoming lecture. The organization is resorting to stronger advertising methods this semester in order to promote "a more dynamic type lecture series," according to Roy Hirschfeld, chairman.

CINA members have been distributing large wooden signs, posters and flyers about the campus, in the hopes of arousing more interest in their programs. During freshman orientation they used a person dressed up as an ape to attract attention. They are presently considering the possibility of using a truck with a public address system for advertising coming events.

THESE ACTIONS are being taken to combat the wave of "lack of desire to bother about what's going on in the world," stated Hirschfeld in an interview in a busy CINA office.

CINA is pursuing this course as part of its "responsibility for bringing scholarship and intellectualism to the campus," Hirschfeld explained.

CINA is attempting to schedule those speakers who will be most interesting to the majority of the students, Hirschfeld stated. Jack Anderson, controversial Washington columnist, appeared last night at MSC. In the past two weeks CINA has presented consumer advocate Ralph Nader and assemblywoman Ann Klein.

The organization criticized student apathy. When CINA has presented speakers such as Hubert Humphrey or Barry Goldwater in previous semesters only about 500 persons, including students as well as outsiders, have attended. "This is annoying," Hirschfeld said, considering the undergraduate population of about 7,000.

THE RECENT Ralph Nader lecture drew a crowd of 1300 persons, which was the largest in the history of MSC, the chairman said. However, "This is still not enough," he added. Perhaps "professors and administrators should take some responsibility in the matter," he continued, commenting that many instructors refuse to mention upcoming lectures in their classrooms.

The organization's treasury will allow for only one more major speaker. A major lecturer usually charges about $2500.

MSC Students Join Essex Photo Show

By Maureen Garde

MSC fine arts students are participating in a three man show of photography at the Essex County Blood Bank in East Orange this month.

According to blood bank officials, MSC's exhibit is the first in a series of monthly shows that will draw on student work from schools and colleges in northern New Jersey.

SENIORS JOHN Piccoli, John Meany and Frank Maddaloni have each contributed a dozen black-and-white prints to the exhibit which opened in the blood bank's donor reception area.

Piccoli, a fine arts education major presently student teaching in West Orange, is showing a series of prints entitled "Movement." He explained that the photos were taken at a wedding and a dance recital, using slow shutter speeds to describe figures in motion.

Meany, a studio art major, calls his photographic study of a Lower East Side poultry seller "The Chicken Man."

MADDALONI, also a studio art major, describes his work "Reflections" as studies of a girl reflected in a series of mirrors.

Robert Kammerer, managing director of the non-profit community sponsored facility, describes the new series of student shows as "beneficial to the artists and to the blood bank. The students have an opportunity to show their work publicly and the shows help create a relaxed, pleasant atmosphere for waiting donors."

THE MONTCLAIR exhibit at the Essex County Blood Bank is open to the public at 45 S. Grove St., East Orange, from 9 am to 5 pm weekdays and from 9 am to 12:30 pm Saturdays, according to Kammerer.

National Frat Accepts Alpha Kappa Psi

By Roy Weiss

Alpha Kappa Psi, the newest fraternity on campus, will officially become a member of the national organization of administrative science majors at an installation dinner on Nov. 18 at the Bethwood Restaurant in Totowa, N.J. The newly initiated president of Montclair State, Dr. David W.D. Dickson, will attend the ceremonies along with the fraternity's professional advisor, Dr. Allen Simonson.

The frat was organized late last semester by Paul Stahlin who then applied for a national membership in the organization of Alpha Kappa Psi and received approval to become the Chapter of Iota Rho three months later. Stahlin was very proud to admit that the three month probationary period was the shortest amount of time a prospective chapter has ever had to wait before becoming accepted by the national fraternity. The MSC chapter has 43 members and Stahlin, who was recently elected president of the frat, says, "the fraternity is still rapidly growing."

TREASURER, JEFF Goldberg, states "that although the fraternity has bowling, basketball, and football teams, the primary function of the organization is to help the administrative science department in dealing with its students."

"We have already packaged and sent boxes and boxes of books to Nigeria in a recent book campaign sponsored by Dr. Elam," Goldberg continued, "and we are also becoming thoroughly involved in the upcoming Career Planning Day. We are 90% a service frat and 10% a social frat."

The frat is sponsoring a tour of the Budweiser brewery in Newark on Nov. 15. Anyone wishing to take the tour can sign up in College Hall on the bulletin board located outside on Rm. 306.

DR. SIMONSON concurs that "our fraternity has the opportunity to be a force for good and progress in the college community. We will accomplish this by our willingness to assist our new department chairman, the entering freshmen, transfer students, the frat itself and the brothers within it."

Bill Straglinos, the corresponding secretary, Rich Hesselsand, the recording secretary, Bill Pancoast, the vice president, all claim that the frat is anxious to accept new members. Although there is no cum average which is required, all applicants must be male and administrative science majors.

Urban Studies Offered

By Dia Palmieri

Recognizing the needs of American cities, the department of geography and urban studies is offering a new minor program in urbanology. To begin in the spring semester 1974, the minor is geared toward preparing students for careers in urban settings.

According to Bertrand Bocher, department chairman, the core of the 21 semester hour minor is a full semester 15 credit internship in an urban agency. An opportunity for on-the-job training is the underlying purpose of the internship. Students will be involved in planning, decision-making and the actual execution of programs.

DURING THEIR senior year, students will be placed in urban agencies according to personal interest and educational background. Placements are to be settled on by decisions made by both the student and the chairman of the department. The range of possibilities extends from city planning and housing offices to urban coalition and social agencies.

Boucher feels that the new program, if supplemented with urban courses offered by other departments, should enable students to seek careers in planning or mid-level administration in various psychology, sociology, geography, history, economics and recreation.

At present, it is not possible to major in urbanology at MSC. Boucher suggests that students interested in the field should meet with him to set up a program which would include the urban studies minor and urban courses from the various departments of the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences.

IN THE future the department hopes to be offering a formal interdisciplinary program centering upon urbanology. According to Boucher the program would borrow from all areas of study because, "...There is no finite category which urban studies falls into."

Recalling the reasons for initiating the urban studies minor, Boucher cited the need to provide a professional preparation for urban careers and also the responsibility to educate students as to the problems of urban America.

According to Boucher the new program should help MSC to achieve its rightful place among the growing number of New Jersey colleges offering urban studies.

urban agencies. Although open to all students, the minor is directed toward those who are majoring in: anthropology, political science,

Student Involvement Must Be Meaningful

What if a faculty strike! The time is soon approaching when students throughout the state will be facing one of the most crucial dilemmas in their educational career, a possible faculty strike. The question to consider here is where do we stand?

I am of the firm belief that our stand should be one concerned exclusively for ourselves. We have a right to the education we pay for. We have the right to receive credit for the time we put it. But we are being toyed with and victimized by a political power struggle between the AFT and the Department of Higher Education.

The Department has served, since its inception, as the initiator of low cost accounting education in our state which has only lended towards decreasing our quality of education. We can no longer sit back and be computerized, victimized and dehumanized by a state education system which seems to concern the dollar before the student.

Our faculties have unionized in an effort to combat the concept of centralization which the Department has embraced wholeheartedly. We must applaud the faculty union for this attempt, but we must consider other ramifications of their direction. In their battle with the state, their contract theoretically jeopardizes student involvement in all aspects of college governance. Their method of employing a strike as a means to pressure the state into negotiation can only hurt students education and future.

Where do we go? I believe we too must attack the Department for their questionable policies for higher education. We must apply the necessary public pressure on the Department to assure us the education we have payed for. It is the responsibility of the Department to come to terms with the faculty.

We demand of the faculty to delete all areas concerning governance, which definitely affect students, from their contract and provide that they be dealt with on the local level. We will not stand back and be removed from the decision making process. As of yet we have possible grounds for enjoinder of the contract, we are prepared to take the risk. In the best interest of students and their education, a wholehearted attack on the Department of Higher Education is a must.

We demand that both parties come to terms. The 99% of the "College Community" will never again idly watch our futures be toyed with by the power structure again. We must assert and be heard!

We Try To Cut Red Tape

We're halfway through this semester and almost everyone has heard about the Drop-In Center. Many people may not be sure as to what we actually are or what we are doing, so we feel it is our responsibility to inform you of our function at MSC.

The Drop-In Center is here to meet the needs of the students — your needs. You may have a question — we may have the answer. If we don't know, we make it our business to find out for you.

CONTACT

We operate in the small building between the Student Center and the Math/Science building. Our services are available to everyone 24 hours a day — every day. We provide information, peer counseling, conversation, or human contact. MSC is a big college; we try to cut through the red tape and make the services and activities on campus seem clearer and more available to you.

Contrary to some beliefs, the problem need not be a drastic one for i o receive attention from the staff. We do provide peer counseling, but we also deal with simple requests such as the phone number of the registrar or the name of the academic counselor for the School of Humanities. These questions are met with the same consideration and confidentiality that any other calls receive.

Certain questions are asked of us more often than others. The topics include: campus information, pregnancy, drugs, sex and personal difficulties. We would like to provide everyone on campus with this information.

INFORMATION

In the coming weeks the Drop-In Center will have informative columns in the MONTCLARION.

Should these columns raise any question in your mind, feel free as always to drop in or dial 893-5271 for more information.

Save Chapin Hall

Once again Chapin Hall residents are finding themselves fighting for their dorm's survival.

The college's decision to convert Chapin Hall into classroom and faculty office space without providing facilities for the soon-to-be displaced students could not be more untimely, particularly since housing is already in short supply.

Blaming Little Falls for not approving apartment construction for students does not hide the college's lack of foresight in planning the move. Little Falls has never been enthusiastic about the proposed garden apartments and problems regarding their construction are nothing new. College officials should have had some alternatives ready in the event that the apartment complex did not materialize as hoped.

Chapin residents and the college as a whole stand to lose much more than just housing space if the planned conversion takes place. Chapin Hall's experiment in Community Living has been a resounding success in establishing a closely knit, personal atmosphere in the dorm, a rarity in today's increasingly automated, impersonal society.

The MSC community would gain very little by transferring offices and classrooms to Chapin Hall and lose a great deal by abandoning the "Chapin Community." It has something to offer that college cannot afford to do without.

WHERE WILL the Chapin residents go if the dorm is used for classrooms?

Racism At MSC

The MSC college community deserves commendation for its participation in this week's "Teach-In On Racism."

The Task Force Against Racism organized an effective and enlightening schedule of events which proved to be a valuable experience for those who attended. The campus turnout and reaction affirms the view that students, faculty and administrators are ready and willing to concern themselves with this ever-present problem.

Last year's racial awareness day had speakers talking to empty seats. But this year's seminars appear to have been near capacity.

Success, however, is not measured by bodies in chairs, especially not in this case. The effect of the teach-in will be measured by the ease of racial tensions in the campus community.

Damage To Ice Cream Cup Is 'Awful, Awful'

To the Editor:

We believe that although it all started in good fun, the destruction of the "Awful, Awful" cup is deplorable and that the students involved are no more than immature rowdies. The cup was given to the college to use as some sort of landmark and even though the moving of the cup from place to place was innocent in itself, the war for the cup between the three dorms was quite childish. We don't refer to the water fight, but the eggs carried things a bit too far. We don't think that the students had any right to use the cup as their toy. They ruined it, so they should be made to fix it, not the fine arts department. As for the maniac that introduced the fire extinguisher, he should be punished. He could have blinded someone. The kids were wrong; make them fix the cup. It beats us how anyone can be having fun while they are ruining something of sentimental value.

Soviet Reality

Editor's Note: Due to technical problems, portions of the following letter were omitted in last week's MONTCLARION.

To the Editor:

Relations between people should be based on mutual respect—on cooperation and realism with as much love (in the most general sense) as possible in a given set of historical conditions. The fight against racism is one of the aspects in our effort for improving life on earth.

But let us keep in mind that the task is difficult and that many mistakes have been made in the past. Any honest effort in fighting racism should include the analysis of errors made by those who claim that they have found a way of eliminating racial barriers.

Socialists and communists claim that racism is a by-product of capitalistic society and that it is impossible in countries with collective ownership. Reality does not support this simplistic statement; racism does exist in the Soviet Union, nearly three generations after their revolution took place.

Racial tension, hatred and discrimination were facts of life in czarist Russia. Many honest people joined the revolution to fight racism. They were told that national cultures would flourish after the revolution, that each ethnic group would be able

Agnew's Ideas Will Survive

The meteoric downfall of Spiro Agnew requires a somewhat soberer analysis than it has received in most quarters. The most important point to be made is simply that Agnew's personal tragedy in no way touches on the cogency or correctness of the ideas he expressed as Vice-President. While it is the obvious aim of Agnew's political enemies to bury the ideas with the man, this cannot and will not happen.

As Vice-President, Agnew rendered a great service to our country and I, for one, feel that history will credit him for it. At a time when the leaders of America's liberal establishment, in government, in the media and in the academy were reeling in the face of the mindless and often violent radicals of the New Left, it was Agnew who had both the courage and the ability to speak out in defense of America's time-honored principles of order and freedom.

VAGUE

Agnew said "no" to the Ben Spocks, the William Sloane Coffins and the slew of others who urged, condoned or apologized for the defiance of law in the name of some vague "higher morality." He pointed out that dissent must in a free society remain within the bounds of the law and that dissenters must, like everyone else, tolerate those with whom they disagree.

Though many don't realize it,

Agnew himself was one of America's foremost dissenters in this age of liberal emphasis. While such values as patriotism, individualism, the family, decency and God are pooh-poohed as old-fashioned and unintellectual in the academic ivory towers and in the media complexes of midtown Manhattan, Agnew recognized that they still remain strong in middle America. His articulate and forceful defense of these values earned him both worshippers and bitter enemies.

In criticizing the monopoly of opinion in the national news media, Agnew, far from urging repression, was calling for more openness and variety in both the expression and dissemination of ideas. Such media innovations as CBS-radio's "Spectrum," channel 5's Dr. Martin Abned, and The New York Times' op-ed page are living monuments to the cogency of what Spiro Agnew had to say.

IDEAS

Spiro Agnew was a man of ideas, a true rarity in contemporary American politics. Those of use who idolized him and those of us who despised him should learn a sobering lesson from his rapid and tragic departure from the political scene.

The lesson is that in history ideas transcend men; individuals will come and go, but the ideas they express will remain and must be judged on their own merits.

Molly Fails 'Chicken Soup Test'

By M.J. Smith

The back cover of "Molly's" opening night Playbill featured a picture of large lemon. It was a most appropriate illustration.

Producers Don Saxon, Don Kaufman and George Daley certainly gave the musical every chance. It toured the backwoods for ages. They pushed back the Broadway opening a full month. They even called in Alan Arkin to doctor up the direction. Nothing helped.

ESSENTIALLY, "Molly" is a Depression Era tale of the Bronx. Molly's husband loses his job. Molly wants him to start a dress manufacturing business. He decided to go to California to grow grapefruit but she doesn't want to go because "grapefruit don't yoo-hoo." In the end, she wins by convincing him to make two-piece swim suits from the remnants she had traded for a cemetery plot. Louis Garfinkle and Leonard Adelson's book is just too, too heart-warming.

Kay Ballard (somewhere between "The Mothers-In-Law" sitcom and this Broadway "Mama Knows Best" she lost the "e" at the end of her name makes a rather lukewarm Molly. She's a fine singer but she'd never pass the chicken soup test.

The only cast member that really shines is Eli Mintz. Mintz created the role of Uncle David in the 1948 Broadway version of "The Goldbergs" and then did a 13 year stint in the tv series. His portrayal of the elderly uncle has moments of true sincerity which the other performances lack.

JERRY LIVINGSTON'S music is easily forgotten and no one in the audience heard the lyrics in the first place. The orchestra constantly drowned out all the singers. Perhaps after the musicians heard Leonard Adelson and Mack David's lyrics in rehearsal they mercifully decided to spare the audience any further pain.

Marsha Eck's scenery and Carrie Robbins' costumes satisfactorily recreate the New York of 1933.

Grover Dale's choreography is a bit stale with a lot of parading around punctuated by a few snappy steps from Mr. Goldberg's business partner (Sven Swenson).

JULES FISHER'S lighting is passable although his fondness for spotlights gives parts of the show a jarring nightclub atmosphere.

The Alvin Theatre has "Molly" theater parties scheduled until Dec. 1974. Mazel tov.

'Full Circle' Barely Survives WWII Bombs

By Michael Finnegan

Air raid sirens whine amid the drone of airplane engines. Bombs explode with deafening resonance. Flickering flashes of light illuminate a marvelous set depicting the rubble of wartorn Berlin. That's how "Full Circle" begins — and nothing else in the play nearly approaches the excitement generated by these first few moments.

To clarify, the late Erich Maria Remarque's only play deals so blandly with themes and characters so hackneyed that one can't help feeling that "we've been here before so who cares" feeling. To further clarify, "Full Circle," written by the author who dealt so passionately with the horrors of war in "All Quiet on the Western Front," is a serious disappointment.

SET IN a Berlin rooming house during the final days of World War II, the plot focuses on the disinterested wife of a resistance hero (Bibi Andersson), who shelters a prisoner who escaped from a German prison camp (Leonard Nimoy). Along the way they outsmart the Nazis, chatter rather cynically about the approaching Russian troop advance, make mincemeat of a black-mailing Gestapo officer and fall in love — nothing new. One senses the theme of survival no matter what the cost vs. death for one's principles — nothing new.

What is different and quite bothersome are the awkward infusions of humor into the story, which is essentially set up as a tragedy. The busybody housekeeper (Linda Carlson) bristles with excitement at the thought of being raped by Russian soldiers. Peals of laughter reverberate through the theater when the Gestapo arrive, and in trying to substantiate Nimoy's deceptive stories, contact a local hospital and find it to be already captured by Russians.

The characters are so bland that the efforts of the cast are wasted. Andersson's performance as Anna is so broad and expressionless that one yearns for the subtlety and intimacy that Ingmar Bergman elicits from her in his films. For a tortured intellectual, the role of escapee Erik Rohde lacks any color or distinction and Nimoy lends a certain precision but not any fireworks.

THERE IS no cliché missed in the Nazi characterizations. Of the three Gestapo officers — one is a carping loudmouth who shouts "Shaddup!" in his best Brooklynese, another is the silent, bone-cruncher gorilla type and their captain is one of those corrupt, less than 100% loyal shmoe who puts his feet up on tables when he sits and tempts women with contraband liquor. When Nimoy's fellow escapee, a Jewish man, is brought in to identify him, one is treated to the classic portrayal of the bald, slouching weasel with glasses that seemed to be the popular image of WWII Jewry. As Katz the Jew, James Tolkan commits suicide in fine style, falling out a window, shouting what a "filthy swine" Hitler is.

To his credit, Otto Preminger's staging never bores but on the debit side, one is never stimulated. He fails at eliciting the emotions inherent in the spirit of Remarque's work, but rather limply relies on the corny dialogue and surface movement to involve the viewer. Peter Stone's adaptation retains little sense of credibility and atmosphere as well as suspense. For the record, because of the terrific opening sequence, credit is due to set designer Robin Wagner, sound technician Gary Harris and Jules Fisher's lighting effects.

At the play's end, Russian soldiers reach Berlin and arrest Nimoy as a resistor of Communism. Here one sees the significance of the title "Full Circle" as Remarque saw it — the entrapped intellectual is no sooner freed from the bounds of one "ism" (Nazism) than he is forced into conflict with another (Communism), completing the eternal cycle. "Full Circle" can also suggest a doughnut — something that goes around and around — with nothing in the center.

Collins Concert: New Date: Nov. 18

Trucking isn't just for truck drivers.

It's also for college graduates.

The American trucking industry is a vast, complex, sophisticated transportation network. A network that moves almost anything you can think of. Almost anyplace you can think of.

And to keep things running smoothly, it needs people. All kinds of people. From computer analysts to cost accountants. Traffic controllers to communications specialists. People like you.

In return, trucking offers you good pay.

Squaws Conclude Season

By John Zawoyski

Montclair State's field hockey team's inexperience was evident this season as the Squaws wound-up with a 2-5-2 record.

"This season was a rebuilding one for us. We had four returnees from last year's team, and the remainder of the squad being a combination of freshmen and first year varsity," coach Donna Olson commented as she relaxed at her desk in the Athletic Office.

"OUR BIGGEST problem was getting the ball into the net. We were well established in all parts of the field but we did not have any scorers," the coach continued.

"We had a strong schedule going against teams like Princeton and Kings College where they simply outplayed us. Our best played games were against Trenton State despite a 1-0 loss and a deadlock tie with Douglass College," Olson stated.

"Co-captains Patte McCarthy and Laura Sanson are the only members graduating. There will be a full team of returning letter winners. Several girls will attend hockey camp next summer. We expect a bright future for our team next season," Olson concluded.

THE TEAM will expect some potential from this year's JV team which turned in a 3-4 season record, lead by captain Joan Van Dorpe. The team was coached by Linda Keeney.

The varsity team had two outstanding players, Kim Hamilton and Karen Dahlstrom, both making the All-College third team.

O'Donoghue Repeats; MSC Third In CTC's

By Rich Keller

"I am very proud of Tim. He ran a very tough race," said cross country coach George Horn, while relaxing in his memento-filled office.

Horn's expression of pride resulted from Tim O'Donoghue's first place finish, a repeat of last year, and the team's third place finish, in the Collegiate Track Championships. Tim ran the race in a time of 25:24.5, which is 12 seconds off the conference record set in 1969.

THE TRIBE grabbed third place honors behind C.W. Post and Trenton State, two teams which MSC had beaten by one point and tied, respectively during the regular season.

O'Donoghue believes that he would have won last Tuesday's NJ College and University Championships race also, if he hadn't been plagued by tendonitis of the leg.

Another First

"The pain was so bad, I needed cortisone shots," stated the 21-year-old junior.

Joe Konarkowski, who placed third for the Indians, received a minor cut on his left leg early in the race, but since he did not know the seriousness of the injury, Horn stated. "It may have been in Joe's mind and could possibly have effected his race."

THE THIRD medal winner for MSC was freshman Mike Exton, who finished 10th.

Let a phone share your room for only 23¢ a day.

And put an end to this.

For only $6.85 a month, plus a one-time $15.00 installation charge, you can have your own private phone.

You'll be able to make and receive personal calls. Even reach other campus phones by dialing only four digits. All without going through a switchboard.

How is this possible? Because Montclair State installed Centrex, the modern telephone service.

So, look at it this way: If you and your roommate go halves, the cost is roughly 12¢ a day. Well worth it when you think about waiting in pay phone lines on those busy got-to-get-a-date-for-the-weekend nights.

Agreed?

Just pick up an application at the Housing Office. And order a phone for your room.

Squaws Schedule Tryouts

All women students are invited to try out for the women's basketball team. Tryouts for the JV and varsity teams are scheduled for Mon., Nov. 19, at 6:30 pm in Panzer Gym.

Coach Cathy Paskert stressed that the team "is not limited to physical education majors. A lot of the women don't give themselves a chance," she added.

Last year's squad posted a 14-1 record during the regular season and won the state championship.

Two Down and Two To Go

By Hank Gola

The Montclair State football team is alive and doing well in the New Jersey State College Conference. The Tribe's up and down fortunes were up again at Dean Field in Ewing where they posted a 24-10 win over Trenton State, raising their record to 4-4.

The skeptic might ask how a team with a .500 percentage could possibly be in the running for conference laurels.

BUT THE Indians own a 2-0 league mark and a win over unbeaten Jersey City State would almost clinch a title. That showdown will occur at Sprague Field on Saturday at 8pm.

Last week, the Lions were tamed before 1111 windbeaten fans. The swirling gusts battered the spectators and played tricks with the ball.

The Tribe respected the currents so much that they elected to take the wind instead of the ball upon winning the flip. Not one pass was attempted into the wind and punts died after 20 yards.

THE INDIANS won the game on the ground. MSC ate up the clock with multi-play drives until the spectators weren't the only group to get tired of watching them.

Trenton gave up two fourth quarter TD's and were almost helpless during the second half when MSC dominated the ball.

The clincher came with MSC leading 10-3 and 7:56 left in the game. Ray Vander May went over from the one on fourth down and Moses Lajterman's placement made it 17-3, forcing the Lions to play catch-up football.

MSC took over on downs at their own 31. Three running plays moved the ball to the TSC 49 where the right side of the line broke Bob Hermanni for a streaking six pointer. Lajterman's PAT closed out the Indian's scoring at 24.

Hermanni had scored the first touchdown of the game on a six-yard scoot around left end. The speedy Indian ran for 134 yards, and is rapidly approaching the 1000-yd.

mark for this season.

Jim Stanko kicked a 36-yard field goal to bring the Lions to 7-3, but Lajterman tied the MSC season record with a second half field goal to up the Indians' lead to 10-3.

AFTER THE two late MSC touchdowns, Trenton got a so-what score when Mike Oswald took a short pass from Bill Paskewich and ran 70 yards for the TD. Stanko converted with no time remaining to make it 24-10.

Coming on the last play of the game, it would have been a story book ending, had the game been closer. It now remains for coach Clary Anderson to dig into his playbook and find some way of beating Jersey City.

Saturday In the Park

GETTING BY: MSC forward Manny Menendez puts a move on Brooklyn defenseman Whitely (17) as he heads toward the net. Menendez netted the winning goal for the Indians in second half of the 2-0 victory.

A NETMINDERS NIGHTMARE is personified in Manny Menendez. Brooklyn goalie Cyril Thomas was harrassed by Menendez all afternoon at Brookdale Park Saturday, capped off by the MSC forward's goal.

Booters Blank Brooklyn Eye Tournament Bid

By Joan Miketzuk

Montclair State's soccer team kept alive its hopes for a post season tournament when they shut out Brooklyn College last Saturday, 2-0.

Following yesterday's match with Long Island University, the Indians close out the regular season with a game against Adelphi University. Adelphi, a nationally-ranked squad, will invade Brookdale Park (off Grove Street in Bloomfield) at 2 pm. Saturday.

IF THE Indians get by the LIU Blackbirds unscathed, the Adelphi game looms as the decider between a post season tournament and a premature winter rest.

Saturday's Brooklyn contest boiled down to a clash of wits between MSC center forward Manny Menendez and Brooklyn goalie Cyril Thomas, a battle Menendez won more than once.

As the visiting netminder would catch and hold the ball, making a save on an MSC shot, Menendez would hawk him, giving Thomas little room to maneuver and feed the ball to his defensemen.

THE SCRAPPY forward's tenacity was rewarded. As the game wore on, Thomas appeared to become more and more unsure of making simple saves, juggling the ball after making a catch and moving slowly to block the MSC shots.

But the Brooklyn defense wasn't giving up that easily, and the Indians had trouble getting their shots through consistently. Thus, the game was scoreless through the first half, even though it appeared all that MSC would have to do to fill the net would be to make Thomas handle the ball.

Apparently MSC realized this and started pressuring the Brooklyn squad into making mistakes. At 16:00 of the second half, Menendez fired one of these mistakes into the net, climaxing his game-long battle of wits with Thomas.

THE PLAY started at the center of the field, with John Tkaczuk threading the ball through the legs of the Brooklyn defense.

The ball bounced around until Bob Mykulak put Menendez in the open with a pass. Menendez looked up to find a clear shot at Thomas.

Seizing the opportunity, he barely paused to corral the ball before sliding it along the grass into the lower right hand corner of the net.

THOMAS, REALIZING he had no chance on the shot, hardly moved. Menendez compensated for the goalie's lack of mobility, however, when he leaped into the air as the ball hit the cords.

The remainder of the game was played mostly in the Indians' end of the field, with Brooklyn pressing for the knotted.

It never came, as the defensive play of Jim Ostrowski, captain Nick Mykulak and Bernie Petrocelli kept Brooklyn from getting any really good shots at goalie Chuck Doran.

THE MSC netminder neatly stopped the nine shots Brooklyn challenged him with as he posted his fifth shutout of the year.

Mario Kawczynski gave Doran some breathing room with 3½ minutes left in the game as he scored his first goal of the season.

Shooting from an extreme angle, Kawczynski booted the ball high towards the crossbar, over Thomas' outstretched hands. Hitting the crossbar on the underside, the ball slid neatly behind the tall, thin netminder.

KAWCZYNSKI CAME into the game midway in the second half when left wing Bill Gaertner was ejected from the game along with Brooklyn right fullback Trachtenberg.

Gaertner had beaten Trachtenberg down the sidelines with a good move. As the Indian went by, Trachtenberg reached over Gaertner's shoulder, taking a swing at the MSC sophomore's face.

Gaertner earned his early rest when he instinctively reacted by returning the favor, swiping at Trachtenberg's jaw.

HEADING for a bid is MSC's Bob Mykulak as he rises above Brooklyn forward Gallimore (13) and defenseman Trachtenberg (18) to direct the ball to a teammate. The win over Brooklyn keeps MSC's chances for a post-season bid very much alive.

ON THE WING: MSC winger Bill Gaertner flies down the sidelines with the ball under control in Saturday's win over Brooklyn College. Gaertner was ejected from the game in the second half along with Brooklyn's Trachtenberg when the two exchanged blows.
